Individual and couple therapy with Allison A Professional Profile

Allison brings a quiet confidence and genuine warmth to her work, helping clients create meaningful change in their lives. Kind, compassionate, and nurturing, she has a way of making you feel safe and supported from the very first session. Down-to-earth and self-contained, Allison approaches both life and therapy with calmness and care. Building a strong, trusting therapeutic relationship is central to her work, and she believes it is key to the success of therapy.

We're delighted that Allison joined the Nightingale team. Like all our counsellors, she has a special personality that sets her apart, and she is a truly valued member of our practice.

Allison is committed to continuous professional development, always learning new skills to ensure she provides the best possible support for her clients. She works effectively with adults, whether individually or as part of a couple.

As a couple counsellor, Allison has received training through a large couple counselling organisation and, more recently, mentoring in the Nightingale marriage counselling model. Our training, led by Florence with over 25 years' experience, has a proven positive impact on the work of our couple counsellors.

Clients consistently give Allison positive feedback, reflecting the care, skill, and dedication she brings to her work.

TESTIMONIALS

“Allison has helped turn my life around after a series of events that knocked my self-confidence at work. I was unhappy, stuck in a rut & in need of support. Allison was aware of my way of thinking from the outset. Her very supportive, but also challenging, approach was exactly what I needed. I have benefited greatly from how she held me to account & challenged my negative thought patterns that had set in. I can genuinely say working with Allison has reset how I think about things so much for the better, with less self-doubt which has resulted in real benefits not only in my career but also in my personal life. I would not hesitate to recommend Allison.”

“My partner and I cannot thank Allison enough for the incredible support she provided us. We were facing some challenging situations, and Allison’s compassionate, insightful guidance helped us work through them together. Her ability to create a safe and understanding environment allowed us to communicate more openly and honestly than ever before. Thanks to her expertise, we’ve strengthened our relationship and haven’t looked back since. I highly recommend Allison to anyone seeking a skilled and caring couple counsellor.”

“The support my partner and I have received through going to see Allison has enabled us to rebuild security and communication in our relationship. My partner and I started session to work out difficult issues in our relationship after a pivotal point occurred. Our sessions with Allison have helped us understand each other and issues we need to work on as a couple and within ourselves. She has created a secure space where we feel comfortable to express how we feel and work on difficult subjects. Since starting with Allison our relationship has been a lot better as we have focused on the root cause of our problems and built new foundations that help us thrive together. We are so grateful we found Allison at nightingale and would highly recommend to anyone needing support.”

“My partner and I came to Allison with quite an unusual problem we needed help working through. We immediately felt at ease with Allison and the discussion and guidance that Allison provided helped us move forward. We have kept her details and will certainly be in touch should we come up against a difficult time again.”

“We have been seeing Allison for a few months for marriage counselling. She provided a safe sanctuary for us as a couple to explore our marriage breakdown. Over this time she gave us the tools we needed not only to face the challenges in our marriage but also in other areas of our lives. We have a much greater understanding of what happened to get us into the situation we were facing. We are now able to use these tools to recognise our feelings and deal with them together through productive communication. The sessions with Allison have left us in a much stronger place to move forward as a couple. We are so thankful. We recommend Allison highly.”

“My partner and I are incredibly grateful for the support and guidance Allison has provided. Through her compassionate, thoughtful, and non-judgmental approach, we’ve been able to work through challenges that once felt overwhelming. Allison created a safe space for honest communication, helping us better understand each other and rebuild a stronger, more connected relationship. We’re truly thankful for the positive impact Allison has had on both our individual growth and our relationship. We feel so very grateful that we found Allison.”

“We came to therapy during one of the most painful periods in our relationship, following the discovery of an affair. Allison created a safe, supportive space where we could begin to unpack the hurt, rebuild trust, and understand the deeper issues that led us to that point. With compassion, insight, and gentle honesty, Allison helped guide us through incredibly difficult conversations and emotional moments. Thanks to her support, we’ve been able to reconnect, heal, and begin rebuilding a stronger, more honest relationship. We are truly grateful for the care and guidance we received from Allison during such a challenging time.”

“When I first started working with Allison, I felt trapped in my mind. Social anxiety had taken over so much of my life — I avoided conversations, isolated myself, and constantly second-guessed everything I said or did. But session by session, Allison helped me find my way back to myself. She created a space where I felt safe, seen, and understood. For the first time in a long time, I felt a sense of hope. Now, I’m not only able to face social situations — I can actually enjoy them. I’m deeply grateful for the compassion and wisdom that helped me begin to live again.”

“Before working with Allison, I felt stuck in the same painful patterns in my relationships. I struggled with trust, communication, and setting healthy boundaries, and it often left me feeling alone, misunderstood, or ashamed. In therapy, I found a space where I could be honest without fear of judgment. Allison helped me understand the roots of my behaviour, and slowly, I began to heal. I’ve learned how to show up more authentically, how to express my needs, and how to build deeper, healthier connections with the people I care about. I can't fully express how much this work has meant to me — it's changed not just how I relate to others, but how I see and care for myself."

"When I started therapy with Allison, I was overwhelmed, burned out, and constantly on edge because of work. I felt like I was drowning in pressure and expectations, and I couldn't see a way out. Through our work together, Allison helped me untangle the stress, set boundaries, and reconnect with my sense of worth. She didn't just give me tools — she gave me perspective, and a space where I could breathe again. I now feel more balanced, more confident, and better equipped to face challenges without losing myself in the process. I'm truly grateful for Allison's support during one of the hardest chapters of my professional life."
